sure	healthily	for	have	obligations
------	-----------	-----	------	-------------

Having a healthy lifestyle is not just about eating (26) healthily and exercising. It often refers to having a balance between work and life. (adv): a road (with much

To start with, make (27) sure you get plenty of sleep. Some research suggests that teenagers need more sleep than adults, however, it's often the case that they get less than they need. With homework and social (28) obligations, you can be staying up late, but you still have to get up early to get to classes, work or other activities. To function properly, your body and mind need a minimum of eight hours of sleep each night.

Eating a well-balanced diet can sound much easier than it is. A lot of people are really conscious about what they eat, and try and make healthy choices. If you think you (29) have too much junk food and want to make some changes to your diet, don't try and eliminate all junk food. You should drink plenty of water, eat a balance of protein, whole grains, fruit and vegetables daily, and don't skip breakfast - eat something (30) for breakfast every day.

II. Read the passage and choose the best answer to each question that follows. Write A, B, C or D on your answer sheet.

Global Warming and You

How is global warming affecting you? Many people in the world would not know how to answer this question (31) _____ they do not see any sort of change in climate. The people who do not notice it tend to live in cities where the climates are already controlled; in essence, they mostly live indoors. If it is raining, they stay inside. If it is too cold or too hot, they (32) _____ the heat or the air conditioning respectively.

However, for farmers (33) _____ live closer to the land, global warming is not something they are separated from. Although they cannot show that the weather, extreme or mild, has anything to do with climate change, they can say over time that things are beginning to seem different. They (34) _____ that flowers and other plants are blooming earlier in northern regions of the world's continents. This causes them to change planting time for crops in (35) _____ cases. Meanwhile, farmers are facing more floods and droughts in their country and elsewhere.

III. Read the passage and choose the most suitable word from the ones given below to fill in each gap. Write A, B, C or D on your answer sheet.

One of the greatest advantages of robots is that they can work in situations that are dangerous or harmful for human workers. For example, the continuous smell of paint has a harmful effect on painters, but it doesn't bother a robot. Robots can work in nuclear power plants and in undersea research stations that might be dangerous for humans. Already, robots are working in the plastic industry and in chemical and industrial equipment industries. One of the most common uses of robots is still in automobile factories. They can do the heavy, unpleasant, or dangerous work. These kinds of industrial robots are not usually mobile. The work they need to do is brought to them, like cars on an assembly line, for example.

The robot industry is a big business. By the middle of the 1990s, Japan led the world in robot production with more than 71,000 industrial robots at work. Both the United States and Japan, as well as other countries, continue to develop more advanced robots. Robots can now be made to perform more complex jobs. Robots can make decisions while they are working and learn from their mistakes. Robots can now see with the TV camera 'eyes'. They can easily hear and can even speak using a voice made by a computer. But it is difficult to make a robot 'understand'. Thinking and understanding are very human qualities. The robots of the future will probably be very complex. They will be able to perform many humanlike tasks. Robots and other technologies will make the future a very interesting place.
