Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions that follow.

Many people see large urban cities as a wonder of human imagination and creativity. They represent how far the human population has come in terms of community development. Despite its positive things, there are also negatives from urbanization on the physical health of humans living.

As it would be expected, developing countries tend to see more negative physical health effects than modern countries in regard to urbanization. One example of a developing country experiencing these problems is China. China is a country that in the past 30-40 years went from being an agrarian based society to a significant industrialized country. This industrialization has in effect caused the need for more centralized cities, centralized meaning having lots of jobs and living spaces within a close proximity. In most recent decades, since China's change to being more of an industrial based economy, the country has experienced record high numbers of people migrating within its borders. In effect, the number of cities with over 500,000 people has more than doubled. These migrations are typically of people from rural areas of China moving to the new urban areas. Due to this large influx in the urban population, there are many possibilities for health challenges among these people.

One very common and fairly obvious negative aspect of highly congested urban areas is air pollution. It could include particulate matter, most commonly attributed to industrial plants and refineries waste, or chemicals like CO2 or Methane. Due to a vast number of people in these urbanized cities, the air pollution is known to be very extreme. These conditions can lead to many different health problems such as: Asthma, cardiovascular problems or disease. When exposed to these conditions for a prolonged period of time, one can experience even more detrimental health effects like: the acceleration of aging, loss of lung capacity and health, being more susceptible to respiratory diseases, and a shortened life span.

Another way that urbanization affects the populations' health is people's change in diet. For instance, urban cities tend to have lots of accessible, quick, and easy to get food. This food is also more than likely not as high quality as well as contains a large amount of sodium and sugar. Because this food is so accessible, people tend to eat it more. This increase in consumption of low-quality food can then lead to diabetes, hypertension, heart disease, obesity, or many other health conditions.

44. The word " it " in the	ne last paragraph refers to	?
A. food	B. quality	C. sodium	D. sugar
45. The word "agraria	an" in paragraph 2 mostly means	S
A. city	B. modernizing	C. farming	D. industry
46. What can be inferred	ed from the passage?

- A. Living in urban areas for a long time will certainly make the life expectancy of inhabitants shorten.
- B. People in developed countries suffer less harmful health effects from urbanization than those in developing nations.
- C. The bad health effects from urbanization are not greater than the benefits it brings to people in urban cities.
- D. One of the negative health effects comes from the overpopulation in industrialized countries.

- 47. The following are the air pollution sources mentioned in paragraph 3, EXCEPT ______
  - A. refineries waste
- B. industrial plants

- D. chemicals
- 48. The word "congested" in paragraph 3 is closest in meaning to _____
  - A. sparse
- B. fresh
- C. contaminated

- 49. Why are urban populations easy to get diseases from food, according to the last paragraph?
  - A. Because of the low quality and the high proportion of sodium and sugar in this food.
  - B. Because the way people get this food is rather accessible, quick and easy.
  - C. Because this food is so delicious that people have a tendency to eat more than normal.
